Sir Thomas Lipton has been an ardent supporter of the project from the beginning and is still working to make it a striking feature of the section to be occupied by the mother country.

The various Hibernian societies in this country commenced more than a year ago to agitate the matter. A cablegram recently announced that these concerted efforts had been crowned with complete success, and that the project had received the indorsement of the Royal Commission.

The industrial exhibit will consist of specimens of coal from the Arigna district, in Kilkenny, admitted by experts to be the finest steam coal of its kind in the world; gold and silver ore from Wicklow; granite and marble from Doneral and Comemara; plate and Iron from Clare and Wesford, and peat from the bogs of Allen.

An attempt to reproduce an Irish cabin will be made from materials, some of which will be sent from Ireland, and one or two Gaelic speakers will be sent to explain in the vernacular the names of the various articles to those who are students of Gaelic in the United States.

One of the most interesting features of the exhibit will be a panoramic view, which, it is hoped, will give some idea of the industrial activity of Ireland about sixty years ago, just before the famine had begun to denide the country of its population. A well-known Irish artist has been engaged on this work for some months.

A number of Irishmen, scholars and archaeologists in this country and in Europe, are now making an effort to secure an extension of the scope of the schibit, so as to include the ancient art and literature of Ireland. Neils Paulson, president of the Hecla Iron Works, was the complaining witness against Parks. Accompanied by R. A. McCord of the same company. Mr. Paulson appeared before District Attorney Jerome and swore that Parks had obtained $2.99
from him last year to settle a strike.

He produced the check to show that the psyment had been made. Mr. Jerome had affidavits drawn and sworn to before Justice Mayer of the Court of Special Sessions, who issued a warrant.

Detective Sergeant McNaught found Parks in an East Fifty-fourth street saioon drinking with friends. Parks made in opposition, saying: "I am glad that I tork off my diamond stud before I left believe it would be necessary for the executive office to take action regarding the lynching of W. T. Wyatt, the negro school teacher, who shot Chaire Shertel, Superintendent of the St. Clair County Schools at Belleville, Saturday night.

"The lynching of Wyatt," said the Governor, "was a single act of lawlessness. It does not indicate a disposition on the part of the local authorities to disregard the law or their duty, such as would warrant the Governor in interfering.

"On the other hand, my information is that the officers who are charged with the administration of the law at Belleville attempted to prevent the lunching, and there is nothing to indicate that they will not do their full duty in bringing the lynchers to justice.

"I know the Prosecuting Attorney of St. Clair County to be an honest and capable official, and I have full confidence in his ability and willingness to uphold the law in his county.

"No Judges in the State stand higher than the men who are on the bench in the St. Clair district, and they can be depended upon to do what is right without suggestion or direction from the Governor's of-
